ELECTION BILL COMES UP SOON

Opposition to Make Strong Fight Against Proposed Changes

COURT OF APPEAL IN B. C.

Minister of Justice Gives Notice of Bill to Fix Salaries

Ottawa, May 4.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Sir Wilfrid Laurier gave formal notice that the bill to amend the elections act would be taken up. This is the bill which provides for the preparation of voters' lists in Manitoba and British Columbia independent of the lists prepared by the provincial authorities, and over which it is expected that the big fight of the session will take place, the opposition contending that there is no reason whatever in treating these two provinces any differently from any other provinces of the Dominion in regards to the preparation of voters lists.

Mr. Borden asked if the government intended introducing any other new bills this session, and was told that it did, the premier stating that among them would be included a bill relating to the boundaries of the province of Manitoba. He promised a further statement for tomorrow. Mr. Oliver informed Mr. Macdonell that the government had not seen the advertisements of Thomas W. Lawson of the Yukon Gold company, and could not say whether or not the statements made therein were correct. Some discussion took place regarding a file from the department of marine and fisheries, regarding the purchases of fire extinguishers from a man named Patton, in which it is alleged that Auguste Lemieux, of Ottawa was concerned. The matter came up on Friday last, and Mr. Brodeur quoted from the file, afterwards laying it on the table of the house. Mr. Blain complained that this file had disappeared from the possession of the clerk, and he appealed to the speaker to vindicate the authority of the house and order that the file be restored to the possession of the clerk.

Mr. Brodeur stated that the file had been required for use before Judge Cassells.

To this Mr. Sproule retorted that Mr. Brodeur should have secured an order from the House allowing him to take possession. The speaker gave it as his opinion that the file had not been placed on the table by order of the House, and therefore did not have to remain in possession of the clerk. Mr. Foster wanted to know if Mr. Brodeur would put the file back on the table, and Mr. Brodeur replied that he would let Mr. Foster inspect it, and sent it across to him by a page.

Mr. Foster quoted a letter from the file written by Mr. Fraser, superintendent of lights to the minister, in which he stated, after asking who an order be given for fire extinguishers: "As I mentioned to you the other day, Mr. Patton has been a very good friend of the Liberal party and a liberal one."

After some further discussion the matter was dropped.

The House went into committee of supply at 11.30, and Mr. Pugley stated that it was the intention of the government to erect new barracks at Kingston. The money would be asked for in the supplementary estimates.

The British Columbia legislature at a recent session passed an act to provide for the creation of a court of appeal for the province. In conformity with this proposal, Hon. Mr. Aylesworth tonight gave notice of a resolution fixing the salary of the chief

The new civil service bill is to be taken up next week.

Deputy Minister of Labor King has completed his report for presentation to the government on the result of his mission to London regarding the restriction of Hindu immigration to Canada. The report may be brought down in the House tomorrow.

King and Queen Return.

London, May 4.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra returned to London this afternoon from their Scandinavian tour.

Ottawa River Raging

Ottawa, May 4.—Twenty houses are surrounded by a good depth of water at Gatineau Point today, owing to the great rise of the Ottawa river. The Chaudiere falls have almost disappeared in the volume of water.

Nova Scotia Wage Dispute.

Halifax, May 4.—A conference took place today between the Port Hood mine management and the men, with the result that a temporary settlement was reached. Both parties to the dispute agreed to refer their differences to a board of conciliation, and the men will return to work tomorrow.

Shows Ease of Money

New York, May 4.—Easement of the monetary situation was sharply reflected today in the sale of $18,000,000 worth of municipal revenue bonds bearing interest at 3 3/4 per cent and extending for a term of six months. The bonds were sold to several banking firms. During the winter revenue bonds were sold by Comptroller Metz bearing interest at six per cent. The marked lowering of interest rate, bankers stated today, evidences increasing confidence in securities. The revenue bonds are issued in anticipation of the taxes paid in October, and these bonds will be redeemed the first week in November.

Mr. Borden asked if the government intended introducing any other new bills this session, and was told that it did, the premier stating that among them would be included a bill relating to the boundaries of the province of Manitoba. He promised a further statement for tomorrow. Mr. Oliver informed Mr. Macdonell that the government had not seen the advertisements of Thomas W. Regina, May 4.—The conference between the premiers of the three prairie provinces was concluded this afternoon and broke up without the premiers arriving at any definite plan for taking over the elevator system of the west. Owing to some misunderstanding, the grain growers did not send representatives to place the scheme before the premiers, but George Langley, who was one of the grain delegates to Ottawa, attended the conference and laid the plan before them. It is probable that a further session will be held at some later date.

MEASURE TOO DRASTIC SAY THE ALDERMEN

W. A. Gleason's Bylaw Does Not Find Favor as Drawn — Its Provisions

As was expected Ald. Gleason's by-law introduced at last night's council meeting to regulate the places of amusement, particularly on Sunday and Christmas day, and incidentally all shops under license, met with considerable opposition, several of the provisions contained therein being objected to on the ground that they were too drastic while some claimed that the measure had been sprung upon them without their first having had an opportunity of considering it. After considerable discussion the measure was held over until the next meeting of the council. There was a large deputation of those interested in the moral reform development, and though the hour was late when the measure was introduced they stayed until the discussion had ended.

Under the provision of the by-law licenses for the places of amusement therein named and those licenses for shops would be granted for but six days in each week, not permitting of keeping open on Sundays or Christ-mas.

The By-law

The by-law as submitted by Ald. Gleason reads as follows:

Inspector Provided

The municipal council of the corporation of the city of Victoria enacts as follows:

1. An inspector of the licenses herein referred to shall be appointed by resolution of the council, and in the meantime, and until such appointment is made, the chief of police shall fulfill the duties.

2. Every person requiring a license to carry on any of the trades, calling, occupations or businesses enumerated or referred to in this by-law (except milk, drugs and medicine) shall apply in writing to the license inspector for such license before issuance thereof.

3. Before a license for any restaurant or tavern (other than licensed to sell liquor by retail) or any dance hall, skating rink, bowling alley, billiard room, pool room, or any place of amusement, or for any hawk, pedlar or huckster is issued, the inspector or licensee shall ascertain if the applicant therefor is of good character, and the same of all members in the case of a firm or corporation, and shall make report thereon to the mayor. Such report does not show the applicant to be of good character the application shall be referred to and be dealt with by the council, and the applicant shall be heard in support.

4. Save as to restaurant and tavern licenses the licenses referred to in the next preceding section, and the licenses issued under the Revenue by-law for the time being in force for all shops except for the sale of milk, drugs and medicine hereafter shall be issued good for week days only.

Penalty for Infraction.

5. The council may hear and determine any complaint against a holder of any license enumerated or referred to in Sections 1 and 2 of this by-law alleging a breach of the condition in the next preceding section referred to after notice thereof to such holder. If the council determine upon such hearing that a wilful breach of the condition has been committed by the licensee they may by resolution require the licensee holder within a time to be named to enter into a bond not exceeding $— with one or more sureties to be approved by the council conditioned for the future compliance with such conditions, and the same resolution may direct that in default of such bond being given within the time stated the license shall be cancelled or suspended for such time as the council may deem right, and the said resolution may further direct the refusal of any similar license to the person offending.

6. Public dance halls, skating rinks, bowling alleys, billiard rooms and pool rooms shall be closed at 12 o'clock midnight of each day, and remain closed until 6 o'clock of the ensuing morning and on Sundays and Christmas Day, so as that neither dancing, skating, billiards nor games of pool may be carried on therein by any of the public. Provided that this clause shall not apply to entertainments for charitable or public purposes or by private or fraternal organizations.

Fixes License Fee.

7. Schedule A of the Revenue By-law 1900, No. 321, as amended by by-laws Nos. 333 and 508, is hereby further amended by inserting the following paragraph:

"26a. Every person, but so that the tax shall be payable by one or other of the persons liable and not by more than one, who owns, keeps or conducts a public dance house or public ballroom, skating rink, bowling alley, billiard room or pool room, $5.00 for every six months.

In introducing the by-law, Alderman Gleason stated that, briefly, the measure proposed that the chief of police should be an inspector of all licenses, and before a license could be taken out for the purposes mentioned in the by-law, the applicant would have to show a good moral character before he would be granted a license. Alderman Gleason thought the people into whose hands such places of business or amusement were placed should be of such character. He felt that there could be no objection to requiring that all places of amusement should be closed at midnight and kept closed on Sunday and Christmas. He had been studying the situation and he felt that there should be some such regulation enforced. He had visited some of the billiard and pool rooms recently and found that they were kept open until an early hour in the morning.

Under the Municipal Clauses act he was sure the city has the power to enact such a by-law. The city barbers had passed upon the by-law as being equitable and legal. There was a general demand on the part of the public that such a measure should be passed, providing for one day of rest each week for the employed. The argument had been advanced that as Victoria receives many tourists every Sunday there should be shops open to cater to their needs. The city hotels would supply these visitors with all they needed in the way of refreshments.

Objections Raised.

The by-law was read as far as section 4, when Alderman Cameron strongly objected to going further into the consideration of the measure. Section 4, he claimed, was a very large and important one, and he felt that the public and council should thoroughly understand it before it was passed by the council. It would be, he thought, a pretty big proposition to carry out. Under the by-law a drug store could keep open, but there was no provision that only drugs should be sold there. The same applied to a restaurant. The cigar store must close and other shops cease operations, but a restaurant apparently could sell articles which the other places of business would be prohibited from selling. The whole question of Sunday observance was, Alderman Cameron thought, a pretty broad one, and the people in the West pretty broad in their ideas, and he did not believe the measure in all its particulars would meet with their approval.

Alderman Henderson believed that if only those premises licensed to sell milk, drugs and medicines were allowed to do business it would mean that livery and express companies could not do business.

Alderman Gleason declared his by-law referred only to shop licenses, whereupon Alderman Cameron pointed out that there are no shop licenses at such, and Alderman Fullerton, on looking up the Revenue by-law, was unable to find any mention of a "shop license."

Alderman Gleason declared his by-law intended to regulate the places of amusement, particularly on Sunday and Christmas day, and incidentally all shops under license, met with considerable opposition, several of the provisions contained therein being objected to on the ground that they were too drastic while some claimed that the measure had been sprung upon them without their first having had an opportunity of considering it. After considerable discussion the measure was held over until the next meeting of the council. There was a large deputation of those interested in the moral reform development, and though the hour was late when the measure was introduced they stayed until the discussion had ended.

Under the provision of the by-law licenses for the places of amusement therein named and those licenses for shops would be granted for but six days in each week, not permitting of keeping open on Sundays or Christ-mas.

The by-law as submitted by Ald. Gleason reads as follows:

To regulate certain places of amusement and the issue of licenses therefor and certain trade licenses.

He had been studying the situation and he felt that there should be some such regulation enforced. He had visited some of the billiard and pool rooms recently and found that they were kept open until an early hour in the morning.

Under the Municipal Clauses act he was sure the city has the power to enact such a by-law. The city barbers had passed upon the by-law as being equitable and legal. There was a general demand on the part of the public that such a measure should be passed, providing for one day of rest each week for the employed. The argument had been advanced that as Victoria receives many tourists every Sunday there should be shops open to cater to their needs. The city hotels would supply these visitors with all they needed in the way of refreshments.

The by-law was read as far as section 4, when Alderman Cameron strongly objected to going further into

MANY BALLOTS BEFORE POSITION IS FILLED

Council Splits Even on Vote—U. S. Ships May Yet Come

For nearly an hour the city council last night balloted to fill the position of market superintendent rendered vacant by the resignation of E. Johnson, who has occupied the position for several years. Owing to ill-health Mr. Johnson has been forced to resign, and applications for the position were called for. Eighteen applications were received, and the council started out on what appeared an easy job to ballot.

The first ballot eliminated all the applicants except William Dalby and Charles R. Thompson, they receiving the highest number of votes, but the rules of the council require that some one applicant must receive a majority of the votes of the council and a second ballot was necessary to decide which of the two should secure the position.

At this point, the council, in some peculiar manner, split even, five for Mr. Dalby and five for Mr. Thompson. Each succeeding ballot resulted in a tie, the solid five on either side standing fast by their choice. After the sixth ballot, Ald. Gleason, who was anxious to bring up his by-law to regulate places of amusement, and who saw on the benches outside the rail a large number of those who supported the measure, suggested that the vote be allowed to stand over until Friday when it could be completed at the meeting of the streets, bridges and sevens committee, but Mayor Hall pointed out that it would have to be decided at a council meeting.

Score Still Even

The seventh ballot was taken and again resulted in a tie. In the meantime City Solicitor Mason had been busily looking up the rules and announced that it did not appear that the council could do anything except settle the matter at one sitting.

The eighth ballot was taken and the ninth but the vote stood five all, with no honors for either applicant. All this time the clock was going around and Ald. Gleason casting furtive glances first at the time-piece and then at the delegation.

Finally Mayor Hall announced that the solicitor was quite sure that the matter had to be decided at that sitting even if it took up all the time and this announcement apparently induced one of the aldermen to desert his favorite. The tenth ballot resulted in a vote of six to four for Mr. Dalby, who accordingly gets the position.

In deciding for the position of supervisor of sidewalk construction to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the late William Scott, the council required but two ballots, the position being given to F. Taylor, who has been a resident of the city for many years and is at present employed at the Sayward mill. He will commence his duties at once.

Resigns His Position

Walter H. Keating, police court clerk, tendered his resignation, stating that his work has been too arduous. Under the by-law the city will have to call for applications. For some time past an assistant has been engaged to aid in the work and the suggestion was made that the position be tendered to him, but under the by-law this cannot be done.

Finally Mayor Hall announced that the solicitor was quite sure that the matter had to be decided at that sitting even if it took up all the time

Going On a Trip? Take a "Thermos" Bottle

The most wonderful invention of the age. It will keep ice-cold liquids ice cold for three days; in cold weather it will keep hot liquids such as tea, coffee, chocolate, broth, soup, bouillon, etc., hot as you can drink them for 24 hours. You can thus bottle exactly what liquors you want, put up by people you know and have them fresh and clean at any moment of the journey. On a scorching hot day you can be independent of food supply for a day or two with comfort.

UNRIVALLED FOR HUNTERS AND FISHERMEN, YACHTSMEN, MOTORISTS, MINERS OR FOR THE SICK ROOM AND NURSERY.

The mechanic, the out-door worker, the shop and factory employee and everybody who works in an office will get much gratification out of a Thermos Bottle.

Call in and let us tell you more about it.

ARCHBISHOP ORTH PERMITTED TO RESIGN

The Prelate's Fatal Illness the Cause—Father Brabant Is Apostolic Administrator

At St. Andrew's R.C. Cathedral on Sunday, announcement was made of the resignation of Most Rev. Archbishop Orth and the appointment of Rev. Father Brabant, a pioneer priest of British Columbia, as apostolic administrator subject to the Holy See, pending the appointment of an archbishop in succession to Most Rev. Archbishop Orth. The resignation was due to the failing health of the archbishop, who is in Italy, most seriously ill, and physicians give no hope of his recovery. He has made application to His Holiness the Pope for permission to resign on this account, and the resignation has been accepted. Notice to this effect has been received at the Bishop's Palace in the form of a decree from his holiness the pope, and announcement to this effect was made from the pulpit of the cathedral on Sunday.

S. G. Mgr. Bertrand Orth, late archbishop of the diocese of Victoria, is 59 years of age, having been born on December 6, 1848, at Cologne, Germany. He was ordained at Brussels in 1872. In 1890 he was appointed to the bishopric in Victoria, succeeding Bishop Christie, who went to Portland, Ore., where he still is and is very popular in the diocese. The diocese of Victoria, which includes the Island, was raised to an archbishopric in 1903 and Bishop Orth became its first archbishop.

As a priest Archbishop Orth was the parish priest of St. Laurence, parish of Portland, and built up that parish, his departure being much regretted when he came to Victoria. Since he took charge at the Bishop's Palace in Victoria, Archbishop Orth has been a hard worker. He has paid off all the debt on the cathedral and church property, and not only is the cathedral free of debt, but not a penny is owing on the Bishop's palace. He has been a zealous worker and has the reputation of being a keen business man.

Ottawa, May 4.—In an interview today in reference to some of the findings of the royal commission which investigated the collapse of the Quebec bridge, Mr. Parent, president of the Quebec Bridge company, and chairman of the National Transcontinental Railway commission, says he was informed on good authority that in spite of the utmost attention to every detail of plans and specifications, a similar great disaster, one of the largest bridges now being erected in the United States was prevented by the experience gained by the scientific world from the collapse of the Quebec bridge.

In the case of such a undertaking as the Quebec bridge, in the absence of any board of engineers to apply to in Canada for preparing plans and specifications, and in view of the undesirability of commingling bidders to a single system, which in the end might not suit, and would almost certainly have led to alterations afterwards, Mr. Parent said the company thought it best to invite tenderers to furnish their own ideas and plans to obtain the best results of the competition and on a broader basis than could be obtained from any individual designer. In that respect the company secured the services of Mr. Cooper of New York, who was considered the best man in the United States for making a selection.

At all events, Mr. Parent said, there could be no visible connection between such remote actions on the company's part, and the disaster which occurred ten years afterwards, and which was solely due to scientific errors, the commission of which would likely have been unavoidable under any other bidding conditions, since it is now admitted that professional knowledge at large is still dependent on the experimental strength of large bridge members in the United States.

Toronto-Sudbury Branch.

Montreal, May 4.—Messrs. William Sitt and George E. Ham of the Canadian Pacific railway, returned yesterday from a trip over the company's new Toronto-Sudbury line, which is to be opened for traffic on June 15. The road is rapidly approaching completion. The stations, which are handsome structures, are all erected and everything will be in readiness for opening day.

Montreal Harbor.

Montreal, May 4.—Major Stephens, chairman of the Montreal Harbor Commission, returned yesterday from Great Britain and the continent, and after visiting the leading ports of the old world, returns to the St. Lawrence firmly convinced that the situation of this port fully justifies any expenditure that will make Montreal the greatest port of entry on the continent. The projected development, he says, will call for a depth of forty feet from Montreal to the sea. It is now 31 feet.

Fortunately for him, Tony could not get his money out of the savings bank, but he got a check for $1,000 from the Dominion Savings bank which he cashed at the Bank of Commerce, this sum then repaired to the Poodle Dog. Pardon having bought a grip in the meantime. They went into a private room and ordered coffee and cake and soon got down to business. ITALIAN THIEF IS SENT UP FOR TRIAL

Luigi Dondero Will Have to Answer Charge of Stealing a Large Sum

Luigi Dondero was committed for trial at the assizes yesterday on the charge of having stolen $1,420 and a nugget worth $20 from a countryman named Antonio Parravicini by means of a trick played on him at the Poodle Dog cafe where both men were lunching. The government has gone to a good deal of expense in the matter, having extradited Dondero from San Francisco. Tony, as the complaining witness is generally called, was sent down to give his evidence, his expenses being paid by the government. Mr. Alkman cross-examined him as to this, and on being told that his fare there and back and lodgings while there had been paid by the government, remarked:

"That's a pretty good government isn't it?"

"You bet a'your life," replied Tony, with fervour, it being apparently the first snap Tony has run across during a hardworking life.

The story of the alleged thief, as told by the victim, is one of almost incredible simplicity, but which finds credence on account of the earnest way in which it is told, as well as the corroborating circumstances. It would seem that on November 25 of last year Tony was in Seattle whither he had gone to look for work. He had just returned from the Klondike and banked $2,000 in Victoria, half in a savings bank and half in the Dominion Savings bank, the remainder of the fruits of six years' hard work in Alaska, consisting of a little over $400 which he had with him.

At the Pacific hotel in Seattle, Tony was accosted by Dondero, who immediately enquired where he had been and how he was fixed financially. The next day he met Dondero again, and this time he was introduced to another Italian of the name of Pardon, the two spoke of the money they had and began to talk of going into business together. While talking still another $800 each. Tony hesitated about putting his own with theirs, but they reminded him that if he did not the fortune would be lost, while he was assured that he would have the custody of the money. At last he threw his purse containing $1,420 and a nugget pin worth $20 on the table with the rest. Then the fat man produced a large parcel said to contain $27,000 in bills. He wrapped the three purses and the parcel in a handkerchief, put them in the valise and locked it. But just as this was being done Pardon threw his arm across Tony's face and kissed him, and while he was thus blinded the purse with the real money was abstracted. But Tony was quite satisfied when they gave him the valise to keep.

The Theft Discovered

They then went out, Dondero keeping Tony walking about the outskirts of the town all day until the time came for the Nanaimo train to pull out at 3 o'clock. Dondero bought his ticket and gave him $8 for expenses until he and Pardon should arrive in the morning for the division of the spoils, thus Tony was borne away northward, dreaming happy, golden dreams, and hugging his precious valise. On getting to Nanaimo he went promptly to bed, taking the valise to bed with him, so that no one might steal the treasure. The men had promised to be in Nanaimo early in the morning, and at 5 o'clock when they did not show up, Tony forced the valise, only to find nothing but two wallets stuffed with papers. The duped man raved and wept and swore, throwing the valise out of the window in his rage. The Nanaimo police told him to return to Victoria which he did immediately, going to the station. Detective Perdue at once remembered that three Italians, answering to the description given, had gone to Seattle by the 4:30 boat the day before, and the immigration officers also remembered the incident.

At the trial yesterday Immigration Officer Smyre corroborated the detective's statement that the three Italians had gone away on the day stated, while William Smith remembered their taking a meal in his restaurant and hearing the kiss given. Eric Hardy, teller of the Dominion Savings Bank, testified that Tony had drawn $1,000 that day as he had said.

Like many prisoners Dondero has joined the group, whose name does not appear, but is called the "fat man" in the evidence. The last comers announced that he had made a lot of money up north and had also inherited a large fortune from his father. He claimed to be worth over $100,000 and said that under his father's will he had to distribute $27,000 among needy Italians. Dondero and Pardon said that though poor they had a little money, but Tony was obliged to confess he had only $120, the remainder being in a bank in Victoria. At that it was proposed that the four should go over to Victoria when all three would produce their money, to show that they were "honorable men," and if the test was passed it was understood that the $27,000 would be divided among them.

Would Buy a Farm

Tony was not enthusiastic at first, but the men never left him out of their sight for a moment, his Italian peasant's greed was excited with the prospect of an easily won fortune, and he finally fell in with them. They started for Victoria the same night, Dondero sharing Tony's room on the boat. Directly they landed they went to the savings' bank, but it was too early, so the hours were wiled away in a saloon. Dondero and Pardon continually discussing the fortune that awaited them, till it was agreed that on getting the money Tony should go to Nanaimo, whether the other two would follow him, the idea being that the three should buy a farm in that vicinity.

Fortunately for him, Tony could not get his money out of the savings' bank, but he got a check for $1,000 from the Dominion Savings bank which he cashed at the Bank of Commerce, this sum then repaired to the Poodle Dog. Pardon having bought a grip in the meantime. They went into a private room and ordered coffee and cake and soon got down to business. Dondero and Pardon produced well filled wallets which they placed upon the table stating that they contained

UNWISE TACTICS.

The Times is very unwise in seeking to introduce politics into the discussion of the water question. Last evening it said that the Esquimalt company "has a devoted friend in the McBride government." Such a statement is absolutely without foundation. Very naturally, Mr. McBride, as a member for Victoria in the legislature, took greater interest in the determination of this question than his colleagues. That he took the matter in hand is greatly to his credit. He might have said that the matter was one between the municipality and a private corporation, and declined to interfere. If he had done so he would not have been open to censure. Instead of adopting such a course, he pledged himself that the government would take an early opportunity to investigate the whole subject, and he has carried out his promise. He did so in the only way in which it could be carried out. He invited all persons interested to appear before the executive and state their respective cases. They did so, and stated them fully. Then, before reaching a decision, the government selected an absolutely impartial engineer and directed him to report upon all phases of the question as it had been presented. This report was forthwith given to the public, with the decision reached by the government as to what legislation it would ask the House to pass. There has been the fullest, frankest and the easiest treatment possible of the whole question, and we submit that it is eminently unfair and grossly unjust to resort to misand for the purpose of creating an impression which the facts do not warrant. Such tactics are extremely unwise, because they prevent the citizens from forming an unbiased opinion of the case. The Colonist placed before the citizens everything which was laid before the government and asked its readers to decide for themselves if the conclusions reached by the government and the suggestion, which it had itself made, were not warranted by the facts. We presented the question as a distinct business proposition, and it was as such that the Times seemed disposed to treat it at first. But in its unwise it must drag politics into everything. Better, in its opinion, that a prejudice should be created against Mr. McBride than that the city of Victoria should obtain a good water supply.

THE TOURIST ASSOCIATION.

The financial condition of the Tourist Association is not as satisfactory as it might be, and it is clear that if some of the people of Victoria do not come forward liberally the work done during the present season will be of a limited character. We have little doubt as to the readiness of the business community to respond. There are no better givers anywhere than among the business men of Victoria. They are ever ready to subscribe to deserving objects, and their readiness is often put to the test. We have not the least fear that they will fail in their duty. But there is another class of people who ought to assist the Association, but as a rule do not. They are the people with real estate to sell—the owners, we mean, not the agents—and all the various other people who stand to profit by the growth of the city. While the work of the Association in the past has done a great deal to bring tourists here, its chief influence has been in making known the advantages of the city as a residential point, and there is little doubt that much of the great influx of people, which has led to an active movement in real estate and unprecedented progress in the building line, has been due in a very large measure to the advertising done by the Association. For this reason the Association deserves popular support. It needs it, if its work this season is to be successful, for the grant made by the city is too small to permit anything like an aggressive campaign to be undertaken.

ARCHBISHOP ORTH

There will be universal regret over the announcement that the Most Rev. Archbishop Orth has been compelled by ill-health to retire from the Diocese of Victoria. During his residence in this city he greatly endeared himself not only to his own congregation but to the citizens generally, who saw in him a churchman of education, broad-mindedness and great kindness of heart. He confined his work closely to matters relating to the spiritual needs of his diocese, but at the same time he looked after its material welfare, and exhibited a laudable interest in secular affairs, which he always approached with a dignity worthy of his exalted position. His many friends will unite in the hope that his physical condition may not be as serious as it is reported and that his restoration to health may be speedy and complete.

The office of Archibishop will not be filled for the present, nor will a bishop be appointed, but the affairs of the diocese will be in charge of the Rev. Father Brabant, as Apostolic Administrator. Father Brabant has been long identified with the work of his church in Vancouver Island, and is deservedly respected and esteemed by all classes in the community.

MONTREAL HARBOR

The Chairman of the Montreal Harbor Board says that the city on the St. Lawrence may be made the greatest shipping point on the continent of America, and that it is planned to deepen the St. Lawrence channel from 31 feet to 40 feet. It is a far cry from Victoria to Montreal, but we beg to offer our congratulations to our big sister city upon such a rosy future and to express the hope that the government and parliament of the Dominion will not fail to do their full duty to enable the Chairman's anticipations to be realized. The Canada that is to be will require the greatest shipping port on the Atlantic seaboard, and also the greatest on the Pacific. We shall have some things to say on the latter subject by and bye. Meanwhile Montreal has the centre of the stage.

The development of all the great arteries of traffic in Canada ought to be approached in no niggardly spirit, and with an absence of parochialism. When Nature made the St. Lawrence, stretching with its great lake system into the very heart of the Continent, she was planning on a large scale. There were to be millions of people in Europe to be fed, and so great wheat lands were spread out where the sunshine is brightest, and a great river and series of lakes hollowed out so as to make a cheap route for the golden grain to reach the sea. But Nature always leaves some things for man to do, and the improvement of the St. Lawrence channel seems to be one of them. As a matter of fact, Dame Nature did not stop to think that we were going to build ships like the Mauretania.

A MISSING LINK

The Grand Trunk Pacific will be completed from Winnipeg to Edmonton this fall, unless all calculations are in error. The company's line from Fort William to Lake Superior Junction will also be completed, or can be completed in time to carry out grain this fall, if there is any object in finishing it. Whether or not there is any object in getting it ready will depend upon the probability of the section between Winnipeg and Lake Superior Junction, under construction by the government, being completed this year. This section is 245 miles long, is, of course, very much more difficult than the prairie section built by the company, but probably not more difficult than the 205 miles which the company has built from Fort William to Lake Superior Junction. It is fair to say that the contractor for the government section has had a hard time of it. Labor has been scarce, and the difficulties surrounding his work have been great. But what the public will learn with regret is that this link of 245 miles will be incomplete when the company's parts of the line are ready for the transportation of grain. It will occur to most people that the government, knowing how the company was pushing forward its work, and knowing also how greatly the prairie country needs a new outlet for its wheat, would have discovered some means whereby this 245 miles could have been got ready in time for this fall's business. The resources of the government must be greater than those of the company, and one would suppose that, as the prime reason for the construction of the line from Winnipeg eastward was to provide an outlet for the grain, the government would not have lagged behind the company. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, speaking at the shareholders' meeting in London, said that the delay on the part of the government was very vexatious to the company. It will apparently be a source of financial loss to the wheat-growers of the West. This seems unfortunate that with the whole resources of the Dominion at their command, the government of Canada could not build 245 miles of railway during the time required by the company to build 1,000.

MANCHURIA.

Recently we devoted some attention to the problem created in Manchuria by the friction between the Japanese and Chinese. Recent correspondence of the London Times shows that we did not overstate the gravity of the situation. The London paper's correspondent at Pekin says: "China's sovereignty in Manchuria is being ground small between the millstones of Russian ascendancy on the north and Japanese ascendancy on the south." The Times thinks that the growing importance of the city of Kharbin, on the Sungari river is likely to create international difficulty. We quote:

Kharbin is the most extraordinary city in Asia. Eleven years ago its site was a desolate plain. Now it contains more Europeans than any city in the Asiatic continent. It stands on the banks of a magnificient waterway. It is the centre of a vast tract that will some day become one of the great corn-producing areas of the world. Its possibilities of development are enormous, and though the war affected its ravish, and somewhat unequal prosperity, its steady growth is now assured. The swift rise of this straggling, unkempt city, with its swarm of European inhabitants, and its converging railways under European control and protection, in the heart of a huge province now restored to China, presents a difficult and delicate problem, of which we have by no means heard the last.

Mr. B. L. Putnam Heale, speaking of what he calls "the wonderful city of Harbin," says it is best to approach it at night, for he says: "The endless lights signalling to one another across many square miles of conquered plain, signal yet more insistently to give that theme in a message that is worth some understanding. For a great city lies before you; a city which only nine years old, (Heale wrote in 1907), and yet built with the fashionableness of Europe; a city misunderstood, the real East, although geographically its slave; a veritable enigma among cities." He tells us that the war has converted Harbin into the most populous European city in Asia, "a city having at the latest computation 80,000 Russian inhabitants." Immense buildings, broad streets and great squares are the characteristics of the place, and the railway trackage is greater than at any city in Europe. It was in 1897, he tells us, that "two Russian pioneers rode into the place and camped on the bare veldt." This city stands in a fertile plain, capable of becoming one of the greatest grain-producing regions in the world, and the forest resources lying in the region drained by the Sungari and its tributaries are enormous.

In the south Japan is asserting claims which are absolutely inconsistent with Chinese sovereignty, being nothing less than the right to carry the mails. This might be adjusted by mutual concessions, but Russia is making territorial demands in the north which neither China nor Japan will be willing to admit. Indeed the outlook is that another war will be necessary to determine the status of Manchuria.

AS TO GOLF.

Only fear of being regarded as sacrilegious restrains the Colonist from venturing some remarks about golf. Golf we have been assured is not a game. It is a cult, a mystery, a religion—at least there are some people who go out to the links at the time when they are presumed to go to church. There was once a preacher of whom it was said that he went into the profession so as to be at liberty to indulge his passion for strong language. Perish the thought that this can be true, or that any man ever played golf for that reason, but the instigation shows another reason for regarding golf as a serious thing. If we may judge from a somewhat limited experience, golf has a language of its own. Its devotees "speak with tongues," that is they say things that are unintelligible to the uninitiated, and it is told of a certain gentleman of the cloth, who shall be nameless, that there are times when his silence on the links is more eloquent than he can ever hope to be in the pulpit. In view of these things we forbear making the observations which otherwise would seem appropriate. Instead of doing so we bld the golfers welcome. They cannot all go home champions, but they ought to all go home happy. They are participating in an excellent pastime. It takes people out of doors. It affords wholesome exercise. It is a million times better than the card table. It ought to develop sound manhood and womanhood, for it calls for the exercise of good judgment and much skill. It helps comradeship, and, if the truth must be told, it has on a very few occasions, and in foreign lands of course, been understood that a little god with bow and arrows has followed a youth and maiden round the course and made the best score of the day.

Now that these observations may not be wholly valueless to the good people who will be driving the little sphere with their drivers, or putting it with their putters, or lifting it with their loppers or doing things like that during the next few days at the Oak Bay Links, we subjoin some observations from a recently issued book called "Advance Golf," by J. Braid. The day of the short driver is over, unless, indeed, his putting is something superhuman; and we have all got to try to drive as far as we can. Nothing has been so noticeable in the golf of the last few years as the great increase in the length of driving. There is an interesting piece of evidence of it to be found at Hoylake at the fifteenth hole, where is a certain spot called "Johnny Ball's gap," so named because that celebrated golfer alone had sufficient length to take a particular lie to the hole. Before ever the rubber-cored ball came in to shorten Hoylake, very moderate drivers had begun to take the lie which had once only been dared by the champion; and, now, nobody thinks anything of it. Increased competition has forced every one to hit harder and further than they themselves imagined they could. What is the secret by which we may drive that extra fifteen or twenty yards, which are so invaluable? Well, in the first place, Braid wants us all to stand further from the ball and to be very careful to twist our bodies. Just as in our childhood we learnt to say grace and fold up our napkin after meals, so in our golfing childhood we were all taught to pivot elaborately from the hips. Unfortunately, however, men lose these admirable habits; they rise hastily from lunch with grace unsaid and napkin unfolded; and in the same way at golf, forgetting their early lessons, they rise hastily on their toes and hit at the ball without giving their shoulders time to turn. Thereby, as Braid points out, they lose length and also a great part of the physical pleasure of hitting; and one of our first steps in the searching after length must be carefully to revise the twisting of our bodies. After this Braid's great point is the timing of the stroke. It is only in recent years that it has become the fashion to talk of timing a stroke at golf, although the expression has long been commonplace in regard to games played with a moving ball. Nowadays, when our shot goes an inadequate distance and gives us an unsatisfactory feeling, we say we mistimed it; and a few years ago we should have given a more detailed and less intelligible excuse. Perfect timing is such an elusive and intangible thing that a teacher might almost despise of helping any one to acquire it. Braid, however, makes the best attempt at a solution of the difficulty that we remember to have seen. Everything, arms, wrists, and body, he tells us, are to be in the highest possible state of tension at the top of the swing. The golfer is to regard himself as a dangerous explosive, and is to be handled very carefully and kept severely in check until the moment arrives for the damage to be done—that is, when the club comes on to the ball!

The Montreal Gazette thinks that Major Hodgins' charges as given in the Colonist are worthy of immediate inquiry, even though they may be subject to discount.

Prince de Sagan is going to turn Protestant so as to be able to marry Madame Gould. We mention this highly important fact in order that the affairs of mankind may once more proceed with their customary regularity.

M. R. N. is informed that under no circumstances whatever can the Colonist permit the discussion in its columns of the motives, character or record of the editors of other papers. It will be obvious to our correspondents on consideration that to adopt the contrary rule would be to open the door to what might become a serious abuse. The things of which our correspondent complains work out their own cure in the course of time. Meanwhile to mention them with particularity would only give those responsible for them some much-desired advertising.

The Empress of Britain, which left Liverpool on Friday evening last has on board the largest number of passengers that ever left the British Isles on one vessel—1,580. The majority are of the immigrant class, who are to settle in Canada. This is interesting, as bearing out the prediction that the present season will break all records in the matter of an influx of settlers from the British Isles. The spring has hardly fairly opened as yet; and if the present rush continues during the greater portion of the summer, as the officials of the transportation companies believe, the total of new arrivals should be enormous.

Mr. Henderson, commissioner of the Yukon, who has just reached Vancouver on a brief visit, brings a very cheery report of conditions in the famous northern mining district. The season's gold output promises to be large. The Guggenheims will operate a number of dredges and will probably commence hydraulicing during the summer, and prospectors and individual owners are very active. Few great mining camps have ever better lived up to their reputation than the Klondike, which—while of course the boom days have passed—he never suffered from any serious depression. And we have some confidence that it has not yet seen its best days. In the opinion of those most competent to express an opinion on the subject, there are vast deposits of the precious metal yet undiscovered. But in the interim, it is very gratifying to be told by so high an authority as Governor Henderson that conditions today are eminently satisfactory.

We do not know much about the Rev. Dr. L. A. Crandall, of Trinity Baptist Church, Minneapolis, except that he is a slanderer. He told a meeting of ministers in that city that the congregation of the Baptist Church (he did not say which) in this city was so small that he was ashamed to go in, and so it was in a couple of other churches, and said other uncomplimentary things about Victoria. After he had completed his tirade, the Rev. Dr. Fraser, of Vancouver, arose and emitted some more slanders. He attacked Victoria because there are English people here, and said that "if anybody is despised in Western Canada, it is the Englishman." Dr. Fraser is wrong. There is no one despised in Western Canada as much as he is. He is a cheap creature who plays for popularity in a gathering in the United States by defaming things English. In no way could he more easily earn the contempt of those whom he addressed, for every man of them would have let his tongue cleave to the roof of his mouth before he would have come to Canada and slandered his own country.

The day of the short driver is over, unless, indeed, his putting is something superhuman; and we have all got to try to drive as far as we can. Nothing has been so noticeable in the golf of the last few years as the great increase in the length of driving. There is an interesting piece of evidence of it to be found at Hoylake at the fifteenth hole, where is a certain spot called "Johnny Ball's gap," so named because that celebrated golfer alone had sufficient length to take a particular lie to the hole. Before ever the rubber-cored ball came in to shorten Hoylake, very moderate drivers had begun to take the lie which had once only been dared by the champion; and, now, nobody thinks anything of it. PREPARING FOR THE SPRING ASSIZES

Hon. W. J. Bowser to Appear for Crown in Ceddo Murder and Dynamiting Case

The attorney general's department has been busy preparing for the spring assizes which are about to open. Deputy-Attorney General McLean has left for Vancouver where he will conduct the assizes which in that centre will last for several weeks. He goes from there up to Clinton where among other cases will come up the case of the desperadoes charged with the murder of the young American engineer up in the Arctic circle. The trial of the murdered man has been brought south and will be put in evidence.

Hon. W. J. Bowser will conduct the assizes at Kamloops, at Vernon and Greenwood and will leave early in the week. At Kamloops there are eight charges against a rancher for cattle-stealing and defacing brands. At Greenwood Mr. Bowser will represent the crown in the case of Frank Colletti, the Italian recently extradited from the United States on a charge of dynamiting a hotel near Niagara, B. C., where a woman lost her life. G. H. Barnard, K. C., has been instructed to take the local assizes while T. Aikman will appear for the crown at Nanaimo.

NEWS OF THE CITY

Husband Bound Over

Charles Hine, a laborer living at Esquimalt, was bound over in the sum of $100 to keep the peace on the complaint of his wife. The testimony adduced before Magistrate Jay showed that he had on various occasions used threatening language, once saying he would kill her.

Rhodes' Scholarship Committee

The annual meeting of the committee for the selection of the Rhodes' scholars from British Columbia, placed in the present year will be held on May 1. The committee is composed of the Lieutenant-governor, Chief Justice Hunter, Dr. R. Robinson, superintendent of education, Inspector Stewart and Inspector Gordon.

Collecting Sewer Tax.

City Treasurer Kent has of late been busy sending out the annual solicitation to householders for this year's sewer construction and sewer rental taxes, over 3,500 notices having been issued. The total amount of this tax this year is $20,200.16, compared with $17,809.63 last year. The city assessor is also busy at present making up the assessment roll and issuing the notices.

Board of Trade Meetings.

The council of the Board of Trade will hold a meeting on Friday at the Board of Trade rooms for the purpose of considering important matters and drafting a programme of affairs to be held before the monthly general gathering of that organization which will take place on Thursday the 14th. The secretary wishes it noted that all members having business to bring before the Board should notify him immediately.

Garesche-Carter Prosecution

Attorney General Bowser has announced his intention of conducting the prosecution of Dr. Garesche and Dr. Carter in person. The defendants, it is understood, will elect to take a speedy trial before Judge Lumpman as soon as the depositions are ready, which will be today. As practically all the county court cases have been adjourned this month, there will be no difficulty in securing an early date for the trial.

New Garrison Officer

Major Bennett, who has been appointed to take the six month's course necessary to qualify him for the position of staff adjutant to Col. Holmes, D.O.C., is expected to arrive here from Ottawa in the course of a few days. His duties will be similar to those at present performed by Capt. Elliston, who will take over the command vacated by Capt. Muspratt Williams, who has left for the Old Country. While here Major Bennett will be attached to the artillery corps.

Building Permits.

Yesterday a number of building permits were issued by the building inspector as follows: Thomas M. Stevens, dwelling and carpenter shop on St. Lawrence street, to cost $1,500; Alexander Bruce, sr., additions to dwelling on Russell street, cost $100; Moore & Whittington, dwelling, corner of Andrew and Beacon streets, cost $1,300; Lewis W. The late Mr. Ormond, who was born in Peterboro, Ont., was fifty-one years of age and is survived by a wife and a number of relatives. His father and mother, two sisters and two brothers reside in Victoria. The sisters are Mrs. J. T. Macdonald and Miss Ormond, of Victoria, and Mrs. Stratton, wife of the Hon. J. R. Stratton, formerly member of the Ontario government. One brother, A. C. Ormond is residing at Gordon Head and the other, O. B., is in Victoria. The funeral will take place today at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Dr. Campbell, pastor of the First Presbyterian church will conduct the services.

Taylor

The funeral of the late Mrs. Julia Elizabeth Taylor, wife of R. C. Taylor, of the E. & N. railway staff, was held on Sunday afternoon from the family home in Erie street to St. James' church, where services were conducted by Rev. J. H. S. Sweet, and thence to Rose Bay cemetery where interment took place. During the services at the church the solo "Feeble as a Bird," a favorite song of the deceased, was rendered by F. A. Sparks the accompaniment being, at her request, played by Mr. Taylor, who is organist at St. James' church. The pallbearers were James Pottinger, Joseph Foster, C. E. Gardner, F. A. Sparks, J. Stewart and W. Garland Foster.

Dickson

The funeral of the late F. Lindsay Dickson took place yesterday afternoon from the parlors of the B. C. Funeral Furnishing Co. at 2 p. m. and later at Christ Church cathedral, where appropriate services were conducted by the Rev. Canon Beaman and as also at the grave. The pallbearers were: Col. Gregory, Major Mutter, Gerald Dickson, J. Musgrave.

Terry

The remains of the late Garra Kimball Terry were laid to rest yesterday afternoon. The funeral took place at the residence of his son, W. S. Terry, Leighton road, at 2:30, when an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. A. J. Brace. The following were the pall-bearers: M. McFayden, C. H. Bowes, Jas. Townsley, F. J. Hall, W. Tufts, H. Crane.

Lima

The funeral of Manuel Lima will take place this morning from the parlors of W. J. Hanna. Services will be held at the St. Andrew's R. C. Cathedral. They will be conducted by Rev. Father Galway.

McEwen

Arrangements have been made for the funeral of Thomas McEwen who died at St. Joseph's hospital on Sunday, to take place from W. J. Hanna's parlors at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. G. K. B. Adams, pastor of the Metropolitan Methodist church, will conduct the services at Ross Bay cemetery.

Flindell

Robert Flindell died at the Provincial Royal Jubilee hospital yesterday. He was seventy years of age and was born in London, England. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock from the Hanna chapel. Rev. G. K. B. Adams will conduct services at Ross Bay cemetery.

An English Fault.

Referring to Sir Hubert H. Parry's retirement from the Oxford professorship, The London Musical Herald comments as follows: Now that Sir Hubert has been forced by ill-health to resign a post that was so dear to him, our principal feeling is naturally one of gratitude to him for a decade of quickening impulse. But there is, for thoughtful people who have the good of English music at heart, another consideration which is not altogether reassuring. For in England we have a fatal way of taking a man who shows marked ability in some particular line, and overworking him generally in other lines; and this is more especially true in music. What should we, as a nation, have lost had we taken Lord Kelvin in the prime of life, and made him, say, headmaster of Eton? What, had we made Mr. G. F. Watts devote his best days of energy to training academy classes? Yet when a man has, with the "Best Pair of Sirens," created the possibility of a new epoch in English music, we say, "Come, let us overwork him in other lines, so that composition will henceforth be for his spare half hours." But this, as Mr. Kipling would say, is another story.

Court of Revision

Harvey Combe, the registrar of votes, held the statutory semi-annual court of revision yesterday. The proceedings were devoid of interest as no objections were filed, although the Liberal party had a couple of representatives there. The old list contained 5,066 names, of which a number have been removed. There have been 1,610 new applications, of which a considerable number are duplicates so the net addition to the list will not exceed 1,000. The names of 34 dead men were removed yesterday.

Cold Baths.
It is a good plan for fairly robust people who live in temperate climates to take their exercises on rising, in connection with the morning bath. A cold shower bath followed by a rub-down with a rough towel, and ten or fifteen minutes' exercise with any convenient apparatus, is a great invigorator. Such exercises may be taken conveniently in one's underwear before completing dressing, or if the weather is not too cold, it may be done stripped with great comfort and satisfaction. The man who once acquires the habit of a cold shower and exercise in the nude soon comes to enjoy it, and to realize what a barbarous thing it is to have to wear so many clothes. He secures so much freedom of motion, and feels such a delightful glow all over from the combination of exercise and nudity. The feeling must be experienced to be appreciated.

When the wooden steps are removed the condition of stone and marble underneath is a trial to the housekeeper who cannot afford to send for a professional cleaner. She should dissolve oxalic acid in boiling water, apply it to the steps with a stiff scrubbing brush or broom, rub hard, rinse with cold water and wipe with a clean dry cloth, after first having absorbed the surplus moisture with sponge.

In Woman's Realm

HERE AND THERE

It would be difficult to overrate the importance of the work the normal schools of Canada are doing. There, the teachers of the country receive the special training which is to fit them for their work. The majority of the young men and women, who enter the training schools are in earnest. They are intelligent and impressionable.

From the teachers to whose instruction they listen and from the books they read in the normal school they form their ideals of what a teacher should be. There they learn something of child nature and how best to impart that knowledge they possess.

It is quite true, that the greatest teachers, like poets and painters, are born, not made. But genius is rare.

In these days when the schoolmaster (and still more, the schoolmistress) is, almost in the land many must engage in the work who are not specially fitted for it by nature. It is to such students that the normal school is specially valuable. They learn there what mistakes they are likely to fall into and how to avoid them. If they are at all in earnest they can scarcely leave the training school without deciding whether or not they are fitted to be teachers.

The finest normal school in Canada, so far at least as regards size and equipment, is that which forms part of the Macdonald college at St. Anne de Bellevue near Montreal. The students at that institution were recently addressed by Professor Locke of the faculty of McGill university on "The Education of a People."

In the course of his remarks Professor Locke said that in the schools of the country a national ideal should be developed which would be greater than the sum total of individual ideals.

It is such an ideal that Canada needs. The young people of the country want to have in their minds a clear vision of what is best and highest in life. The teacher who can show the boy or girl how to become a good citizen and a worthy member of society is doing the best service to the state. If through the love and breadth of Canada teachers in the country places and in the cities were engaged in this work the future of our country would be assured. That every lesson given in school should have that aim in view, should never be forgotten by those who direct the education of the youth of the country. Canada needs good mechanics, good mathematicians, and good linguists, but most of all she needs good men and women.

What a beautiful thing cheerfulness is! The happy face, the bright smile, the hearty greeting—what an influence for good they have! The girl who goes about the house singing snatches of song or the lad whose blithe whistle pierces the evening air often makes the day brighter or the night less gloomy for those who chance to hear them.

The little children with their merry shouts and happy laughter do much to make this world better, as well as happier. Truly it is that we elders so often think it necessary to curb their high spirits and to stifle their harmless mirth. After all, is there any reason why so many people should wear such gloomy faces? There are, it is true, great sorrows that come to us all, seasons when grief is our master and when mourning is a duty. But life even the saddest of lives, has in it far more bright than gloomy days, far more sunshine than shadow. Even among those who have suffered the greatest bereavements, do not each of us know some great soul who has buried the wound and who gives to that soul loves cheerful sympathy and active help.

It is not the great sorrows but the little trifles that annoyances which, after all, rob life of its brightness. Yet why should such trifles be allowed to have so great and injurious an influence upon our lives? If men and women could but realize that enjoyment is a necessity of perfect life, what a difference it would make to most of us. We would not make a sort of merit of gravity or even of discontent. Mirth and innocence go hand in hand and in the same book, in which we are told that the way of the transgressor is hard, we receive the admonition to rejoice ever more. The world would be a better place if each of us realized more deeply our duty to make the lives of those around us happier and that we can do this most effectively by being happy ourselves.

The Busy Man's magazine has nothing but praise to give to the result of the experiment of children's savings banks in Toronto. There, as elsewhere, it was feared at first that children who were encouraged to save money would grow selfish and miserly. The teachers and all others in the city who have observed what has been going on, say that the very opposite has proved true. The children saved, not for themselves, but for others. During the recent hard times the savings were withdrawn from the bank to help the distressed father or mother. One of these Toronto boys bought a piece of land, another withdrew his savings to enable his father who had failed to resume business, while a third paid his sister's college expenses.

The leaflet secretary (Miss SHD) reported 12 new subscribers during the month.

The babies' branch secretary (Miss Jones) reported five new members. Expenditure, 20 cents. Indian Committee (Mrs. Averill) reported the receipt of the pamphlets "Indians of Canada." Mrs. Scriven gave an interesting and comprehensive paper upon the "Uganda Missions," and Mrs. Dickson took up very fully "Our Pledges."

Before closing, Mrs. Luxton welcomed another life member, Mrs. Burns, president of St. John's branch, and gave notice that the women of the diocese would meet on Tuesday, May 5, at 3 o'clock, in the cathedral schoolroom, for the purpose of discussing one of the questions of the Pan-Anglican congress. Archdeacon Scriven will take the chair. She also stated that she would not be able to preside at the next meeting were it held on the last Friday of May, whereupon a discussion arose as to whether a substitute should be appointed to take the chair then or should the next meeting be held on May 15, when Mrs. Luxton could be present. Finally, upon motion of Mrs. Toller, seconded by Mrs. Harrup, it was resolved "That the next meeting be held on May 15."

After singing the Doxology the ladies of St. Saviour's served tea, and the meeting adjourned until May 15.

WOMAN'S WORK

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Musical club will take place this afternoon at Waitt's music hall at 3:45 o'clock. It is hoped that every member who can do so will attend.

There were no more busy women in town yesterday afternoon than those who belong to the Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A.

The house was being erected for the Home Fair, which is to be opened this evening, booths being erected and contributions received. Altogether there was a great bustle and confusion, with perhaps a little more noise, than in the days when the Assembly hall was being fitted up for a fashion ball.

The ladies confidently expect that this evening all their friends and all those who desire to see a Y. M. C. A. building worthy of Victoria, erected in the near future will patronize their Fair. The money realized will go to the furnishing of the new building. No pains is being spared to provide a pleasant evening's entertainment for all visitors.

There will be a general meeting of the Women's Auxiliary in St. Barnabas' schoolroom tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock to meet Mrs. Bredin of St. Peter's mission in the Mackenzie river diocese. Nothing inspires one with interest and zeal in missions so much as meeting and talking with those directly from the field, and it is to be hoped that as many as possible will avail themselves of this opportunity of hearing Miss Bredin tell of her interesting work in the far north.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Missions was held in St. Saviour's schoolroom on Friday, April 24, at 2:30. First Vice-President Mrs. Luxton in the chair. There were 33 members of the board and a number of W. A. workers present. Prayers were read by the Rev. R. Connell. The roll was then called and the minutes of the last meeting read and approved. The treasurer's (Mrs. Wolaston) account showed $93.50.

The Dorcas secretary (Mrs. Hiscock) reported: Articles made and sent to Mrs. Hall, Alert Bay, by St. Mark's branch to the value of $6; articles to Van Andra hospital, value $30, by St. Michael's branch; wearing apparel to Mrs. Hall, Alert Bay, value $12 and useful things to Rock Bay hospital, value $18.50, by the Cathedral Senior branch; useful articles to Van Andra hospital, value $17.60, by St. Paul's branch, Esquimalt.

The corresponding secretary (Mrs. Clarke) reported that she had received a letter from Mrs. Brecombe, Vancouver, asking for particulars regarding the formation of a Boys' auxiliary. She stated that she had written Rev. St. J. Payne for these particulars, and in his reply to her, he had said that he could no longer continue his work among the Boys. Mrs. Scriven has very kindly offered to take up this branch of the W. A. work.

The literature secretary (Mrs. Tolson) reported that the literature committee had had a most interesting visit from Miss Boyce of Toronto, representing the Church and Empire guild, and read a paper setting forth the aims of this organization, which are to supply good literature to those new and thinly settled districts such as Labrador, parts of Australia, etc., where a clergyman can only reach once or twice a year. She had for sale the pamphlet "Indians of Canada," and, for lending, several magazines on the Jewish missions.

The organizing secretary (Mrs. Dickson) reported that she had written to Ladysmith, Duncan and Cowichan, and read replies from Rev. W. P. Heath, Ladysmith, stating that at present they could do no W. A. work; from Mrs. Dougall Duncan, giving a most interesting sketch of the work of that parish; from Mrs. Averill, Cowichan, giving an account of her efforts to get W. A. workers together; from Mrs. Symons, Wellington, telling of her work at Nautilo.

The junior secretary-treasurer (Miss Moore) gave notice that the Juniors would hold their annual meeting in the cathedral schoolroom on Saturday, May 16, and the seniors of the cathedral will hold their annual on May 6, in the schoolroom, to which all W. A. workers are cordially invited.

BASEBALL OPENING ON NEXT SATURDAY

Fans Are Jubilant But Knockers Fail to See Merit in Locals' Form

The baseball fans in this city are again joyous, although the knockers that attend all of the ball practices at the ball ground had their little hamper busy Sunday taking exception to good as well as bad plays. The jubilation of the fans was caused by the really brilliant article of ball that was turned up by the candidates for the senior team in all departments of the game.

DEFEATED NANAIMO

The Champion Caledonians Played Sunday Game in the Coal City

Nanaimo, May 4.—Early a thousand spectators witnessed an exhibition game of football on Sunday afternoon on the cricket field, between Nanaimo United and the Caledonians, of Calgary, the champions of Canada. The result was four to one in favor of the Calgary team.

The play was very even in the first half, Calgary scoring two goals while Nanaimo failed to score. In the second half Nanaimo scored one while the visitors put in two more. The Caledonians played a fine combination game while the local backs played an exceptionally good one.

INTERMEDIATES READY FOR BATTLE TOMORROW

Lacrosse Teams Both Confident of Winning the First Game

Everything is now in readiness for the first lacrosse match of the season in the city intermediate series which will be played at the Oak Bay grounds tomorrow night at 6.30 o'clock between the J. A. A. and the V. W. A. teams and the game promised to be snappy lacrosse of the time. Both of the teams put the finishing touches on their training last night and reports from the camps of both are to the effect that each is confident of winning. The committee of the contesting clubs will select the teams that will represent their respective organizations today and so many men who are qualified for places have been out to practice that the executive say they will have much difficulty in choosing the best material for the teams.

The statement that there has been friction between the baseball and lacrosse management over the use of the grounds for tomorrow evening for the initial game of the season is without foundation and the management of the baseball club wish to state that they are quite willing to have the lacrosse players have the use of the grounds at any time, when they are not using them themselves until their own grounds are completed and ready for use.

Coach Stanley Peele is quite enthusiastic over the prospects for one of the best teams that has yet represented the city and thinks that he will be able to select a team from the combined aggregations that are playing in the city league at present to put a twelve in the field that will be a surprise to the lacrosse enthusiasts of this city. While the coach has not made any definite choice as to who will fill the various positions on the teams he is quietly sizing up the material on the different teams and will be in a position to place the best men that can be had in the field when the date of the first game arrives on May 25.

It is rumored that there are several strong players from New Westminster and Vancouver coming to this city and if this is the case there will be no dearth of good material as was supposed from which to select a strong team. Last week there arrived from Port Hope one of the strongest players who has played on the Ontario lake team during the past few years in the person of George Brown and although this player has not stated whether he will don a uniform of the local club or not the management will leave no stone unturned to get him into the ring.

TO CHANGE SYSTEM OF BALL UMPIRING

Local Management Will Have Two Officials in Place of One As in the Past

At the opening game next Saturday the management of the Victoria ball club will introduce a new departure in the way of umpiring games on the local diamond. In the past it has been the custom to have the usual one umpire take charge, but this season the double-umpire system which is being worked with great success in the more important games in the major leagues will be used here.

This means that one umpire will look after the batter, work calling balls and strikes alone, while the other umpire will do all the deciding on the bases. The work is in this manner divided, making it far easier to make correct decisions, as the umpires are directly over their work at all times. It will also do away to a large extent with the usual complaints against decisions by the players, consequently avoiding useless delays in the game so often caused by this useless bickering and grumbling. If this new system proves as satisfactory as it is expected to it will be adhered to during the entire season.

According to the latest Sound papers, the Imperials, who will play here this week, are indeed a fast team. On Sunday, in a game with the Ballard nine, at Ballard, they defeated the home team by a score of 2 to 1. They also played a perfect game in the field, not one error being charged against the team. The batting of both teams was rather light, each side making but three hits. An errorless game so early in the season is certainly going some, and no doubt Victorians will see a decidedly fast game here on Saturday. The local team will have but little time now to get in shape before the game, so all players are requested to be on hand at 6:30 sharp tonight in order to take full advantage of the still short evenings.

SWEDEN MAKES GRANT

Riksdag's Appropriation of $5,000 to Olympic Fund Ensures Full Attendance of Team

Stockholm, May 4.—After much haggling, the Swedish Riksdag has granted a sum of $5,000 to the team that is going to the Olympic games in London. Besides this a Swedish merchant resident in London has promised to stand the expenses of the team during their stay in London. The foregoing will insure the full attendance of a team of about 75.

The Swedes are hopeful of doing fairly well at the forthcoming tournament, although they realize that it is going to be a hard tussle. In the middle distances, 400 to 700 yards they have no great runners, but in the shorter runs Canute Linberg is a good man and fully equal to Morton if in form. John Svanberg defeated Duncan the English champion, last year in Sweden, and should be a formidable man at all the long distances. He was beaten by Sherring at Athens.

G. Tornros ran the Marathon distance in 2 hours 48 minutes 22 seconds, three minutes better than the Athens time in 1906. D. Dahl and S. Stromberg are good runners. The latter has done the three miles in 15 minutes 30 seconds, and five miles in 25 minutes 50 seconds.

All the athletes who took part at Athens have substantially lowered their records. The greatest hopes are centered in a newcomer, Hugo Wieslander, who is only 17 years old, but described as a wonder as an all-round man. The Swedes have practised at weight throwing, but have not achieved any great results in that line yet.

VICTORIA YACHT CLUB PLAN INITIAL CRUISE

Will Assist at Oak Bay Club Regatta—To Build in a Short Time

A meeting of the management committee of the Victoria Yacht club was held in the Imperial Bank chambers last night. Some trouble had arisen recently over the title of the waterlily race, later suggested by the manager meeting by the finance committee, but the committee will be able at their next meeting on May 13 to decide as to the most suitable lot when this question will be settled and building will immediately commence.

An important step that was taken at this meeting was the naming of a date for the club cruise and it was decided to hold this on May 30 and 31. It will be the intention of the management to have all of the members of the club attend this the initial cruise of the rejuvenated organization. The particulars of the cruise will be decided upon at the meeting to be held on May 13.

The meeting unanimously decided to assist in every way the Oak Bay boat club in the regatta that that club will hold on May 9, and it is expected that all members of the Victoria Yacht club who own motor boats will make it their business to attend.

VADSO STRUCK ROCK IN NORTH

Hauled Out on Ways of Victoria Machinery Depot to Make Repairs

WATER LOW IN THE SKEENA

Port Simpson Has Reached Kitselas and Will Probably Get to Hazelton

The steamer Vadso, of the Boscowitz Steamship company, which reached port on Sunday from Naas and way north of the northern British Columbia coast, was hauled out on the ways of the Victoria Machinery depot on Sunday to be repaired in consequence of striking a rock, hitherto unknown, in Schooner Passage, Rivier's Inlet, on her way north. The Vadso was deeply loaded, having an unusually large cargo, consisting mostly of cannery supplies and had about 80 passengers, mostly Chinese cannery workers, on board, when she struck with a hard bump and remained fast. The tide was low and the steamer was proceeding under a slow bell on account of being so deeply loaded. There was no excitement.

After the impact, the bow hung upon the rock for nearly an hour, floating off without apparent injury, with the rising tide. Examination showed that the vessel was not making water and she continued on her voyage. On the return to Victoria the steamer was placed on the ways of the Victoria Machinery depot and examination showed that the injuries sustained were mostly to the forefoot of the vessel. The keel was bent near the forefoot and there were two dents in the garboard strake. The work of repairs will occupy until tomorrow afternoon and the steamer will be ready to sail again for Naas, Prince Rupert and way ports on her schedule time, tomorrow night at 10 p.m.

News was brought by the steamer Vadso from the north that the water in the Skeena river is lower than usual this season and a poor season is anticipated. After several stoppages at riffles owing to the lowness of the water, the steamer Hazelton, the first of the river fleet to start service, had reached Copper river, the main construction camp of the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad constructors before the Vadso left Port Essington on Thursday last, and the steamer Port Simpson, which had arrived two days previous from Victoria, was being made ready for her first trip up the river, being expected to leave on Saturday.

A telegram from Kitselas reports the arrival there of the steamer Port Simpson on Sunday night with 100 passengers and 90 tons of freight. It was expected the steamer would be able to get up river to Hazelton. The telegram states that heavy rains have occurred with the result that the river rose 8 inches on Sunday, and a further rise was expected.

There was little snow on the mountains and the expectations were that the water in the Skeena would be unusually low this year, making the season of navigation a brief one. There will be a bigger movement of freight than during any previous season, if the steamers can accommodate it. It is feared, though, that with the low water the river steamers will not be able to accommodate more than a portion of the freight offering.

There was a large number of idle men at Prince Rupert when the Vadso called there, but they seemed cheerful, mostly willing to wait for the commencement of construction work on the Grand Trunk Pacific railroad, the work which had attracted them north. Many new camps were seen on the Skeena, a large one having been formed opposite Port Essington since the last trip of the Vadso.

SITUATION IN RATE WAR IS UNCHANGED

Princess Victoria Goes to Esquimalt for Overhauling—Chippewas Big Crowd

There is no change in the situation with regard to the rate war between the C. P. R. and Inland Navigation companies on the Victoria-Seattle route. Efforts are being made to bring about an understanding but so far no result has been reached. The Seattle Merchants' association, as stated, is disposed to favor the Seattle company.

The steamer Chippewa on Sunday brought 655 passengers from Seattle. She left Seattle with 749 passengers and landed 57 at Port Townsend. Yesterday she had about one-sixth of the

WEEKLY REVIEW OF THE CHARTER MARKET

Outlook for Crop Shipments is Poorer
Fairplay Tells of Offerings for North Pacific

Little change has occurred in the freight situation during the week. Grain chartering is quiet pending the outcome of the new season, and lumber business is slow at low rates, says the San Francisco Commercial News in its weekly report of shipping conditions. The regular steamship lines running out of San Francisco, Portland and Astoria, bound for the Orient, made further cutbacks on wheat and flour, taking effect on May 1, as a result of the low rates offered by tramps. The rate to China and Japan is now $2 per ton. This makes the second sharp cut in the last few weeks.

Crop advises in California, indicating that the outlook is rather poor, owing to the recent warm dry spell, but in Oregon and Washington the outlook remains bright. Shippers are still paying high rates, although they are not making heavy engagements. Owing to the poor prospects of business, two steamers in port here have been ordered away in ballast, and two more on the way, will follow the same course upon their arrival. Two British ships have accepted fixtures as coal storage vessels until the new crop season commences.

Lumber fixtures Portland to Iquique have been done at $38 4d, and Puget Sound to La Boca on time, and the same price. One schooner has been taken on for Portland, Chile, and three or four from other coast ports to Mexico. One tramp steamer has been fixed on time, Puget Sound to Alaska at $18.75. Coastwise lumber business is dull and insignificant.

Offshore rates are quoted approximately as follows:

Lumber from Puget Sound or British Columbia to Sydney, 36s 2d, to Cape Town, 36s 2d; to Fremantle, 36s to Japan ports (steamers), 3ls 3d or 32s 6d, to Callao, 38s 9d to direct nitrate port, 32s 9d; Valparaiso for orders, 38s 6d or 32s 3d, 6d less to a direct port to South African port, 47s 6d, to U. K. Continent, 52s 6d (55s); Guaymas, $7.00 or 25s.

Fairplay discussing the outlook, says: A French ship has accepted $8 per ton freight for cement from the Thames to Portland, Ore., and Hamburg quotes 10s for cement thence to San Francisco, a big difference from the rates obtainable last year for similar business. As a result there is comparatively little tonnage on the market. Trade with China from this side and grain charterers are looking ahead in consequence, and quite a number of French vessels have been fixed for new season's grain loading at 27s 6d from the Columbia river and Puget Sound ports. Unless a marked improvement takes place in nitrate rates, the season's loading it is not unlikely that the rates of the North Pacific grain tonnage will be supplied from the West Coast. The rates for nitrate from the West Coast appears to have settled down to 12s to 12s 6d prompt loading, at which rates several vessels have been recently fixed. Coal rates from Newcastle, N. S. W., having gone lower instead of advancing as was thought, have been extended, the word having done in face of the wretched rates obtainable by the White Pass and Yukon freight carriers.

The Canadian Pacific steamer Ascot, laden with hardwood ties from Otaru, Japan, and the British steamer Taunton with lumber from Vancouver passed out to sea on Sunday. The Ascot is bound to Guayamas, Mexico, and after discharging her cargo from the North Japan port will come north to load bunker coal at Tomox and await orders. The Taunton, which took her cargo at the Hastings mills, is on her way to Australia. The steamer Livingston, which brought coal to San Joaquin, and came to Tacoma for cargo is expected to reach Nanaimo today to load bunker coal. Capt. Poole, pilot, went to the sound port yesterday morning to take the big freighter to the coaling port. The Norwegian steamer Elsa which loaded a cargo of lumber at Portland passed up from Astoria yesterday carrying 2,804,700 feet of lumber, valued at $42,070 for Fremantle, Australia. The Norwegian is going to Nanaimo to load bunker coal for her voyage.

Mr. Arthur Heathorn, formerly of Victoria, traveling freight and passenger agent of the Pacific Coast Steamship company, has been appointed agent of the company at Spokane. Mr. Heathorn is at present in Spokane, having gone there last week with R. D. Pinneo, assistant general freight agent of the company, for the purpose of opening the agency there. Mr. Heathorn has been for many years engaged in steamship business in Victoria and Vancouver.

Emmett Ewers, formerly of the staff of the B.C. Photo Engraving Co. of Victoria, and who is now in business in Seattle, is here renewing acquaintances. He states that while the acknowledged commercial centre of the Sound has passed through a trying period of financial depression, the future is exceedingly bright. The Alaska Exposition of 1909 he thinks, will give the business men of Seattle a stimulus which will be felt in every line of industry.

Smith Curtis of Rossland, is spending a few days in the city on business. He has just completed a tour of the interior. While he found that the financial straits had left its mark he noted a marked improvement in the present condition, and that which existed several months ago in Nelson this was, perhaps, more evident than elsewhere. Settlers were coming into the Okanagan in large numbers. For the most part they were taking up small farms and starting fruit growing. He was astonished at the progress everywhere apparent in this section. Many of the young orchards were beginning to come into bearing and he was sure that it would not be long before the output will be so increased as to give outsiders some adequate idea of the importance of that district from an agricultural standpoint.

On Saturday the marriage took place in Seattle of Miss Marguerite Noel, second daughter of the late William Moreby, formerly warden of the B.C. Penitentiary, and grand niece of Admiral of the fleet, Sir Fairfax Moreby, G.C.B., D.C.L., Knight of Malta, Threst, and Basil Gavlor Prior, only son of the Hon. Lt.-Col. E. G. Prior. The ceremony was performed at Holy Trinity church by Rev. H. Gowen. Rev. Mr. Gowen was formerly of New Westminster, and was an intimate friend of the bride's family. The marriage of these two young Victorians was kept close secret by them, only a very few of their most intimate friends being given a hint of the approaching nuptials. Mr. and Mrs. Prior will spend a week or more on the Sound before returning to Victoria.

Mr. Robertson thought that the Indian question was more far-reaching than most people realized. When they were first provided for it was understood that they should, not only have the lands specified, but that they should have the hunting and fishing privileges over all crown holdings. The latter were being constantly curtailed. For instance they were told that they must not use weirs in catching salmon and that they must not hunt on certain property because now it was part of an organized district and therefore, they were precluded from taking of its game for their daily food. Only the other day he had been notified that Salt Spring Island was embraced in an "organized" district and that, of course, the Indians would have to govern themselves accordingly.

Naturally they resented this. They took it as a direct breach of the agreement which their fathers had entered into with the government, not understanding that the increase in the population of British Columbia and its constant growth in all directions made these things necessary. They looked at such matters from a plain unvarnished standpoint, not entertaining the thought of qualifying the action of the administration by the prevailing conditions. Hence he believed that the situation, if the provincial government undertook to institute a thorough investigation, would be found more complex than anticipated.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

McIntyre and Heath.

At the conclusion of the present American tour of "The Ham Tree," in which McIntyre and Heath are the stars, it is most certain that the entire outfit, with company, chorus, scenery and working staff, will play a London engagement following with a few weeks in Africa en route to Australia, where enormous terms and most enticing inducements have been offered.

Messrs. Klaw and Erlanger, Mr. Marc Klaw of the firm has but lately returned from a tour of inspection, looking over the various theatres of Europe and in London particularly, where everybody agreed McIntyre and Heath would be a great success. In Europe negro impersonators are very popular on the stage and at the seashore, and public streets are infested with negro bands. They are more common at the seashore resorts and the side streets of Europe than the German street playing band is in America. To an American the negro performer in Europe is a joke; they are generally of the German or Irish, French or Italian, or Cockney English type, their dialect being pronounced, which makes it ridiculous and silly to the American who is familiar with the true negro dialect. Think of the foreigner with his pronounced dialect impersonating an American negro, and you will have a good laugh.

Asked his opinion of the assertion that the natives of British Columbia were occupying more reserve land than they were properly entitled to under the original agreement entered into between the provincial and federal authorities, Mr. Robertson stated that it was not the case along the east coast of Vancouver Island. Taking the Cowichan reserve as an illustration he said that of the 6,000 acres there set aside for the use of the Indians there only 1,200, according to conservative estimate suitable for agricultural use. The remainder consisted largely of rock. He could not speak of the conditions existing on the mainland, having no personal knowledge of them.

As to the argument that the Indian population had decreased to such an extent that the lands now held by them were much in excess of what was intended for each living individual he thought that even if this proved to be correct it would be somewhat difficult to reach an equitable basis of re-arrangement. In some of the tribes the numbers, undoubtedly, were falling away. But in others the reverse was the case. It was impossible to tell what the future would bring forth. As the Indians became more cultivated in their tastes and learned from the white man to live cleaner lives there was no doubt that their numbers would swell. He believed that this would occur. And then what would the authorities do should they take away and otherwise dispose of property which had been reserved for their use?

TALLEST TOTEM POLE TRAVELS TO ENGLAND

Victoria is Bereft That Cambridge Students May Wonder

The glory is departed from Victoria—in three pieces, per Dominion Express. At no longer will the wondering tourist gaze, and artists stand amazed, for swiftly across the continent to that ancient foundation, Trinity college, Cambridge, the tallest totem pole in the known world is being borne, cut in three pieces to accommodate its 69 feet of length to the straitened confines of the modern express car.

Greatest and chief amongst these works of art of the Haida Indians of the Queen Charlotte Islands, the tall totem pole has stood for years before the residence of H. Stadthagen, Yates street.

The fame of its weird carving and undimmed colors traveled abroad and the attention of Professor Glashier of Trinity College, Cantab. He conceived that it would be a handy thing to place in front of the college portals. Thus to think, was to act and now stripped of its splendor, the front of Mr. Stadthagen's residence looks prosaic by contrast with its former splendor.

It took eight men of the telephone company to unroot the Haida penates from the Stadthagen front yard amid the admiring comments of a large crowd of passersby.

Mr. Stadthagen declares that it is a shame that such a relic of British Columbia's early history should be allowed to go out of the city. He compares the city's loss with that of Greece when were lost the Elgin marbles.

Small Representation of the Western Military Districts to Be Allowed at Celebration

The Mikado.

Final rehearsals of "The Mikado" by the local company which gives this delightful opera tomorrow and Thursday evenings at the Victoria Theatre, will be held today, and will assure smooth and pleasing interpretations. The principals are unusually well cast and the choruses large, tuneful and picturesque, while the staging and mounting and the localizing topical songs are certain to interest and please immensely. The cast includes such established favorites as the Misses Lorraine, Mrs. Bassett, Mrs. James Harvey, Messrs. Patch, Cridle, Rhodes, Booth and Phillips, Mr. C. A. Lombard acting as stage manager, and Professor E. Pfeider as musical director, the latter with a complete orchestra. The seats for this attraction are selling well.

"Did you pay that furnace pension last winter? Did you fill up the bins for your defunct heating institution to play with? Are you now blaming the house walls, windows, cracks—anything but the right thing—for the winter's "heavy siege"?"

"You wouldn't wear old clothes, wouldn't hire old men; wouldn't use an old machine—why go on paying the pension for that old furnace in your cellar?"

"We recommend that this very week you inspect the furnace display at the heating store in your town. We advise you to look for the furnace with Four-piece Grates (long lasting), with Straight, Two-piece Fire-pot (continuous heat-energy), with Large Radiator (quick circulation), with Automatic Gas Damper (gas diffuser—heat retainer), with Two Blue Doors (easy cleaning), with Large Dust-pipe (no dust in face or cellar), with Bolled Joints (permanent service), with "Sunshine" and "McClary" on Large Feed-door (thoroughness—61 years' experience.)

The Cat.

Today the domestic cat is found in every country on the globe and can prove a known history of nearly four thousand years.

The cat was a sacred animal in Egypt. The Egyptians built temples and offered sacrifices in honor of the cat, even embalming its body after death. The large number of bronze inscriptions, monuments and cat nummatics found give convincing proof of the truth of this.

As a green persimmon pucker the mouth so does pessimism pucker the heart.

A man may be content with his lot and still be dissatisfied with the house thereon.

Many a man imagines he has a grievance because his wife doesn't drive him to drink.

HEAD, ARMS AND LEGS
ECZEMA

Mrs. L. Elliott, of 41 Henry St., St. Catharines, Ont., says: "My little daughter Gladys, 4 years of age, was badly troubled from infancy with eczema on the back of her head, under her hair, the joints of her arms and on the back of her legs. This terrible disease first broke out on the side of her head in the form of a red rash and pimples which, if rubbed or scratched sent forth a watery substance, and which later spread to the back of her head, joints of her arms and back of limbs. This proved a rather obstinate case and the child suffered intensely from itching and pain and was very restless and peevish. We tried all kinds of preparations, soaps, etc., but failed to bring about a cure. At last a friend who had been using Zam-Buk for small sores and wounds gave me a portion of her box to try. This seemed so good and showed such an improvement so I bought a supply, and thro' perseverance in using, the disease was soon checked and finally cured. I feel very grateful for the cure Zam-Buk has brought about."

PLACE OF CHURCH IN MODERN CIVILIZATION

Forceful Address By Rev. Dr.
Eaton at A. O. U. W. Hall
Last Evening

A large attended rally of the Baptist congregations of Victoria was held last evening at the A.O.U.W. hall, the occasion being the tendering of a reception to Rev. Dr. Eaton, pastor of one of the most prominent churches of Cleveland, Ohio, which is patronized and supported by John D. Rockefeller, and to Rev. W. T. Stackhouse, superintendent of Baptist missions in Western Canada.

Addressess were delivered by both gentlemen mentioned, the first introduced being Rev. Dr. Eaton. His speech, while comparatively brief, was forceful and eloquent, at intervals rousing the audience to a high pitch of enthusiasm. This was particularly pronounced when he spoke of the relation of Canada and the United States. He said that these two peoples would "stand together, sink or swim, until the battle of the church was won."

His subject was "The Place of the Church in Modern Civilization." Religion was the most important factor in human life. However it was easy to obtain too shallow a notion of what true religion meant. It might be thought that it means being a Presbyterian, a Methodist, a Roman Catholic or a Baptist. As a matter of fact the primal passion of man was a hunger for God. This point was illustrated everywhere. It depended on the quality of the religion of different nations what place a particular people took in the scale of national development.

"A human being with no religion was not a man. But it was possible to take away all his other characteristics and, so long as there remained that heartfelt longing for his creator, there was to be found a man."

Racial Question.

"Christianity was the best religion. The human heart, however, was the same wherever it might be located. That had been demonstrated by the noble Indian, Jacob Chipps, who had risked his life in an heroic attempt to save from death his kith and kin and for which he had been appropriately honored. There was no doubt that there were grave racial questions to solve. And it was equally true that they would never be satisfactorily settled if viewed by one from the standpoint of hate and detestation for the other. He understood that some such question as that to which he referred confronted the people of British Columbia. He could readily believe that the residents of this fair province had reasonable ground, for protesting against the influx of Orientals. On that account he thought they were justified in protesting vigorously."

"But," he added "you must fight this out yourselves. You cannot leave it to the people of Nova Scotia or to those living in any other Eastern Canada provinces. It is you, and you alone, on whom rests the responsibility." It was important, however, that the struggle should be undertaken in the proper way and in the right spirit. Nothing could be gained by hating, looking down on, or assuming that the Chinaman was a man of lower intelligence. "You who think that" he went on "get into a bargain with a Chinaman and see where you get off at." (Laughter)

Chinaman Intelligent.

He went on to say that before the birth of Christ the Chinese had a form of civilization surpassing in many ways that in vogue elsewhere. And he claimed that it was a proven fact that from the point of view of sheer mentality there were none who could surpass the native of the Flavery Kingdom.

He said that the Chinese religion was not all falsehood. The same might be said of others. As Abraham Lincoln had once told the people "You can fool part of the people part of the time and part of the people all the time, but you can't fool all of the people all the time." The same search for a Creator, the same longing for a God, that had made the Christian nations adopt Christianity had impelled the Chinaman to become followers of Confucius.

Christianity gave the world moral energy and its moral code. It answered the question of life, death, and life beyond death. The church was the best instrument for the expression of the best religion.

Dr. Eaton asserted that the modern church throughout the world was becoming conscious of a sense of failure. He was not the man who would speak harshly of any institution without reason. He believed that there were those in the church who were working earnestly and faithfully, who were devoting their lives to the evangelization of the races. The fact remained, however, that the business of many of the churches was conducted on a basis which no businessman of perspicuity would tolerate in his private affairs. It was remarkable that statesmen, those whose opinions on the outside were deservedly listened to with the closest attention, became "babes" when they entered the portals of God's house. There were some of these institutions, and he would like to obtain an explanation of the phenomenon, which were of no more practical value to Christianity than if they existed on the planet of Mars.

The reason for this, in his opinion, as far as America was concerned, was the progress that had been made in recent years. Only seventy-five years ago there were in the United States practically no railways, now these lines stretched in all directions for thousands of miles; country that less than three-quarters of a century ago was almost in a primeval state, was now dotted with immense cities and in each was found the great problems always arising in great centres of communal life. It could scarcely be imagined what such a strain as this meant to the moral fibre of man. And it was because the church had not kept step with the march of progress, because many of them were looking backward instead of forward, because they were pointing to what their grandfathers had done instead of asking themselves what they should do under the prevailing conditions that this sense of failure to which he had referred was evident.

In his concluding words he spoke of the fact, "during one hundred years as being "Canada's Century." There was no doubt that this was true, and he trusted that the mistake which had been made by the church in the sister nation to the south would not be made by the Dominion but that, on the other hand, it would rally to the call, realizing its tremendous responsibilities, thus ever increasing the volume of the following of the Saviour. He hoped that Victoria, one of the fairest cities he had visited, the gateway to a country of immense possibilities, would see to it that she did her share in this great work. (Applause.)

After a few remarks by the chairman, Rev. Mr. Burnett, pastor of the Central Baptist church, Rev. W. T. Stackhouse was called on. He spoke briefly, referring to the mission work in eastern and western Canada and the growing importance of the laymen's missionary movement. He stated that the object of the tour of Rev. Dr. Eaton and himself was to gather information and that they had satisfied themselves and he was sure that his friend and companion would return with, perhaps, a different idea of the Canadian West than he had conceived.

The gathering broke up with the "Doxology."

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Open Letter to The Times.

Mr. David Murray of the Atlantic hotel, sends the Colonist the following:

Gentlemen—Please accept my thanks for the article you published in the Victoria Daily Times of today a certain article regarding the Atlantic hotel of which I am the proprietor. I wish to say that I am residing with my family in my place of business and also have other gentlemen of high character making their home with me, and whence you could print such an article of that kind in such a conspicuous place of your paper when I have been a subscriber of your paper for the last twelve years and never had anything of that kind happening in any of my places of business before.

Thanking you for your extreme attention and consideration you have shown to me in this matter.

DAVID MURRAY.

HUMANE SOCIETY MEDAL PRESENTED

High Honor Bestowed on Joseph Chipps, An Indian, Last Night

The Royal Humane Society's medal was presented to Joseph Chipps, the Indian who bravely attempted to rescue his daughter and her child from the waters of the Fraser river last July, by Capt. A. J. Dallain last night at the A.O.U.W. hall. One of the conditions imposed by that organization is that this honor shall be conferred in public and, as the medal was received but a short time ago and Mr. Chipps had made a special trip from Seattle to obtain it, the opportunity of the gathering held to welcome Rev. Dr. Eaton and Rev. T. W. Stackhouse was taken advantage of by the local representatives of the society.

After Capt. Dallain had made a brief address Mr. Chipps stepped to the platform and received the medal. He was greeted with enthusiastic cheers to which he bowed his acknowledgement.

The circumstances leading up to the presentation of Mr. Chipps are now history. The sad event occurred on the 11th of last July. With his wife, daughter, the latter's child and three passengers, Mr. Chipps was traveling down the Fraser river. In a gust of wind the boat was overturned. With remarkable presence of mind Mr. Chipps stripped his coat from his back and his shoes from his feet and taking his daughter and the child on his shoulders, tried to swim to shore. They were in the water seven hours before the girl and her baby, benumbed with cold and exposure, gave up the struggle and Mr. Chipps was forced to swim on alone. Reaching shore he informed the authorities of Vancouver of the catastrophe, the bodies were found and the obsequies took place in Victoria.

Subsequently Chipps returned to his home at Cloose and burned his boats and house and all other belongings. He is starting life anew, having obtained a good position in Seattle.

The duties of the superintendent of streets, sewers, bridges and sidewalk construction, as outlined in the schedule attached to the above report, will bring him under the direction of the engineer, and he shall have supervision of all works of construction such as the grading and macadamizing of streets, street paving, the laying of plank and concrete sidewalks, sewer work and building and renewal of bridges. He shall have control of the workmen employed on these works, see to the proper disposal of all material, have charge of all the machinery used on the above works and see that the streets are kept in a safe and clean condition.

Boundary Treaty Ratified

Washington, May 4.—The Canadian international boundary treaty was ratified today by the Senate in executive session. It provides for the complete definition and demarcation of the boundary between the United States and Canada, but does not change in any way the understood existing line.

LONDON DEPRESSION AFFECTS NEW YORK

Stocks at British Capital Decline on Bad News From India

New York, May 4.—A period of weakness during the morning in the stock market, while the London market was in operation was attributed to sympathy with that market and the fact that a recovery set in here after business had ceased for the day in London, was pointed to as confirmation of this view. The recovery, however, did not hold.

The disturbance in London was due to the bad influence of news of trouble in India. Arbitrage brokers sold stocks here quite freely for London account, thus offering direct pressure on the New York market. There was, besides, a continued disposition on the part of last week's buyers of stocks to realize the profits accrued on their purchases a disposition which was already manifest on Saturday in the sharp reaction at the end of the day. The evidence of renewed depression in commerce and industry was the predominating influence today.

The usual weekly remarks by railroad traffic officials, while pointing out the hopeful expression to the sense of disappointment over the slowness of business resumption, and did not hold out much promise for an increased tonnage movement rightaway.

The 1,152 business failures for April reported by Bradstreet's exceeds the number for any previous April recorded, with liabilities in excess of any April since 1893. The moving was corroborative of the figures of the large increase in idle freight cars reported by the American Railway Association last week, and of the decline of unfilled orders on hand reported by the United States Steel Corporation reported on May 1.

A reported interview by a prominent official of the Pennsylvania Railroad was instrumental in shaping opinion, and his views were decidedly conservative as to the prospects to be expected in business revival. More confidence was voiced by President Gould, of the Missouri Pacific, and that stock made a conspicuous advance, contrary to the general current of the market.

Announcement was made during the day of the sale of New York bankers of $20,000,000 of New York revenue bonds, and the rate of investment return at 3% showed a sufficient reduction from that on which the last issue of city revenue bonds was placed, which was six per cent, to encourage confidence in the prospects for placing railroad issues.

Efforts to sustain prices centered on Southern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper, with Union Pacific and St. Paul were freely sold to take profits, the whole market weakened late in the day.

Bonds were irregular. Total sales, par value, $2,780,000.

ELK AND DEER.	—	—	—	—	—
As president of the American Humane association, Dr. William O. Stillman has received a number of letters recently from persons who are interested in the protection of elk and other helpless members of the deer family in the Northwest. One of these letters, which was written by a man living on the border of Yellowstone Park, gives a graphic picture of the suffering of the animals in winter and the reasons therefor. Dr. Stillman believes that now is the time to improve the condition of the grass-eating animals of the region, and he hopes to secure from congress an appropriation which would accomplish the desired work.	—	—	—	—	—
"I should judge," says the writer mentioned above, "that about forty per cent. more of the wild animals, such as deer and elk, die of starvation, and exposure as compared with wild animals such as coyotes, lions, etc. If they are not poor they can and do fight such animals off, but as, in winter, they get poorer and weaker each day, it seems that coyotes and lions get bolder until, at last, the elk and deer give up and become easy prey."	—	—	—	—	—
"This country is settling in places where the game used to winter, and where the hillsides blow bare the sheep men graze their sheep. The sheep eat the grass close and trample it out, so that it is impossible for game to live through the winter. Our president has set aside large tracts for timber reserves in order to protect the grasses and also to protect the game. Then he has his forest superintendent lease this very ground where game range, so it is impossible for elk or deer to live there as the tame sheep tramp out and destroy all grasses."	—	—	—	—	—
"Any one who has never been where sheep range has no idea how barren they make a country. The very first thing that has to be done is to draw the president's attention to this matter, and as he is a western man he will understand it at once. I believe he will then issue an order prohibiting sheep from grazing where game ranges, or on timber reserves. I interviewed the Montana game warden in regard to this matter. I also went and saw Gen. Young, superintendent of the Yellowstone Park. He said he would do all in his power to help. I also had Howard Eaton write to Mr. Pinchot about the matter, but Eastern men do not know what damage sheep do to the range."	—	—	—	—	—
"I live just on the western border of the Yellowstone National Park, where game is more plentiful than anywhere in the United States. In some parts of the park they put up hay and feed the game, which is as tame as cattle. Still, there are vast areas which could be cultivated and much more hay raised and more game fed. Gen. Young takes a great interest in feeding the game and caring for it, but Congress does not appropriate enough money to properly do the work of raising hay and feeding the game, so he is handicapped."	—	—	—	—	—
"I should judge that there are about thirty thousand elk in the park, besides deer and antelope. There is about one hundred and fifty tons of hay raised, so you see that there could be very much more hay raised if money was appropriated for the park. So far this winter, we have not had much snow, and game is not suffering very much, but last winter, I believe more than 40 per cent. died."—New York Evening Post.	—	—	—	—	—
